Summary:

Necessary Targets is a powerful and moving account of the experiences of women during wartime. Through the eyes of four unforgettable characters, the book explores the devastating impact of war on women's lives, from the physical and psychological trauma they endure to the social and economic challenges they face.

The book follows the stories of four women from different backgrounds and walks of life. There's Mariama, a young schoolgirl from Sierra Leone who is abducted by rebels and forced to become a child soldier. There's Razia, an Afghan woman who is sold into marriage at the age of 12 and then widowed when her husband is killed in a bombing raid. There's Hawa, a Somali woman who is raped and impregnated by government soldiers during the Somali Civil War. And there's Samia, an Iraqi woman who is forced to flee her home when her city is invaded.

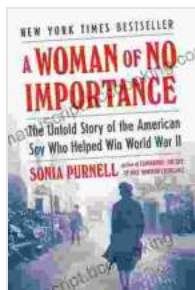

These four women's stories are told with unflinching honesty and compassion. Lamb does not shy away from the horrors of war, but she also shows us the resilience and strength of the human spirit. These women are survivors, and their stories are a testament to the power of hope and love.

Why You Should Read This Book:

- It is a powerful and moving account of the experiences of women during wartime. Lamb's writing is both lyrical and unflinching, and she does not shy away from the horrors of war. But she also shows us the resilience and strength of the human spirit.
- It is a well-researched and informative book. Lamb has spent years interviewing women from all over the world who have been affected by war. Her book is full of detailed information about the impact of war on women's lives, from the physical and psychological trauma they endure to the social and economic challenges they face.
- It is a book that will stay with you long after you finish reading it. The stories of these four women are unforgettable, and they will continue to haunt you long after you turn the last page.
