Nicole's story begins in New York City, where she was raised in a traditional urban environment. After graduating from college, she worked as a journalist and editor, but she always felt drawn to a simpler life. In 2008, she decided to leave the city and move to Maine, where she bought a small homestead with her husband.

The transition from city life to rural living was not easy. Nicole had to learn how to grow her own food, raise animals, and maintain a homestead. She also had to adjust to the slower pace of life and the lack of amenities that she was accustomed to.

Despite the challenges, Nicole persevered. She learned from her mistakes, and she gradually built a successful homestead. She now grows most of her own food, raises chickens and goats, and makes her own cheese and yogurt. She also enjoys the peace and tranquility of her rural surroundings.
