Fenella Miller's latest novel, The Start, is a sweeping historical saga that follows the lives of four women from different walks of life during the tumultuous years of the First World War.

The novel opens in 1914, as the war breaks out and Europe is plunged into chaos. In a small English village, a young woman named Alice is preparing for her wedding day when she receives news that her fiancé has been killed in action. Devastated by grief, Alice must find a way to carry on without the love of her life.

Meanwhile, in London, a working-class woman named Sarah is struggling to make ends meet. With her husband away at the front, Sarah is left to care for their young children and work long hours at a munitions factory. As the war rages on, Sarah's strength and determination are tested to the limit.

In France, a young nurse named Claire is witnessing the horrors of war firsthand. Working in a field hospital near the front lines, Claire sees the devastating effects of the conflict on both soldiers and civilians. Despite the danger and heartbreak, Claire is determined to make a difference in the lives of those around her.

As the war continues, the lives of Alice, Sarah, and Claire become increasingly intertwined. Each woman must find her own way to cope with the challenges and tragedies of the war, and each must find the strength to carry on in the face of adversity.

The Start is a gripping and moving novel that follows the lives of these four women as they navigate the challenges and tragedies of the First World War. Miller's writing is both lyrical and powerful, and she brings the characters and setting to life with vivid detail. The Start is a must-read for anyone interested in historical fiction or women's stories.

The Start is scheduled to be released in 2024.
