

The Ultimate Guide to Standing Out in Today's Job Market for Students and Graduates

6 WAYS TO WORK WITH AN INSTRUCTIONAL COACH

Instructional coaches form non-evaluative mutually beneficial partnerships with teachers and administrators to support the implementation of research-based best practices.

- #1: Focus
Collaborate with a coach to prioritize and categorize all the things you want to accomplish. Your "to-do" list may not be as long as you think.
- #2: Set & Meet Goals
Partner with a coach to set a goal, create a plan to meet the goal, and troubleshoot if problems arise.
- #3: Support PD
In the age of self-directed PD there are countless options for professional learning: Twitter/Voxer chats, EdCamps, workshops, books, blogs, podcasts, etc. Work with a coach to incorporate learning from a PD.
- #4: Observe
Partner with a coach to use tools like video recording and peer observation to gain insight into your practice. Discover what works and what needs to be adjusted.
- #5: Instruct
Have a coach model or co-teach a learning strategy, questioning technique, or tech tool. Partner to analyze content and technique used.
- #6: Assess
Work with a coach to examine assessments. Determine if assessments are really giving you the information you need. Plan next steps using the appropriate evidence to inform your instruction.
