Cecelia "Cece" Branch has always felt like an outsider in her own family. The youngest of three children, she has always lived in the shadow of her older siblings, who are both successful and well-adjusted. Cece, on the other hand, has always been a bit of a rebel. She dropped out of high school and moved to the city, where she worked a series of dead-end jobs. But when her father is diagnosed with cancer, Cece is forced to return home to the family farm.

At first, Cece is resistant to the idea of going home. She has bad memories of her childhood, and she doesn't want to face her past. But as she spends more time on the farm, she begins to see her family in a new light. She realizes that her parents are not as perfect as she thought they were, and that her siblings are not as happy as they seem.

As Cece delves deeper into her family's history, she uncovers a series of secrets that have been hidden for years. She learns about her mother's alcoholism, her father's gambling addiction, and her siblings' struggles with mental illness. Through it all, Cece begins to understand that her family is not so different from other families. They are all flawed, but they love each other deeply.

With Clipped Wings is a beautifully written novel about the power of family. It is a story about loss, redemption, and the unbreakable bonds that connect us to one another.
